MCNICKLE - CRAIN

On Boxing Day (says the Adelong & Tumut Express) a very quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr A. Crain, Mt. Horeb, when the Rev. Joseph Walker performed the duty of joining in the bonds of holy matrimony, Mr. John C. McNickle, eldest son of Mr. J. J. McNickle, of Wagga, and Miss Rachel Crain, second daughter of Mr. A. Crain, of Mt. Horeb.

With the exception of the officiating clergyman, all present comprised relatives of the contracting parties, the list of presents forwarded by friends and relations of the happy couple was a very choice one, some costly and handsome gifts having been received. The bride was given away by her father, and the bridesmaid was Miss Celia Crain, who wore a gold bell bangle, the gift of the bridegroom.

During the wedding breakfast several happy speeches were made, a felicitous one by Rev. Joseph Walker being especially apropos and appreciated. It is no mere persiflage on our part in averring that the bride will be oft sorely missed not only in her late home circle, but by her legion of friends in this community, among whom she was ever regarded as a "lady", than which no greater praise is possible.

Shortly after the breakfast the newly-wedded couple left for a brief honeymoon in Sydney, being accompanied to the train by an escort of friends. The bride's travelling costume consisted of grey voile, trimmed with pink velvet and tucked chiffon vest, skirt flounced and edged with pink bebe velvet ribbon; hat to correspond, Mr. McNickle, as the travelling representative in this district for a city commercial house, is well known by numerous residents.

The presents (a few of which may have escaped enumeration) are as follows: — Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie (Campsie), silver and glass jam dish; Mr. C. R. Thomson, silver photo frame; Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Curtis, silver coal scuttle (sugar); Master Tom Davis, silver mounted purse; Mr. W. J. B. McIntyre, silver teapot; Miss R. Turner (Adelong Crossing), box of handkerchiefs; Dr. Watson, silver-backed brushes; Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Witt, box Atkinson's perfumery; Mr. and Mrs W. R. McIntyre ("Oura House", Wagga), dozen teaspoons and tea cozy; Mrs. and Master Jack Crain (Burnside), cheque; Mr. Geo Gibson, brooch; Mr. and Mrs. Smith (Grenfell), gold muff chain; McLean Bros and Rigg, silver and glass fruit stand; Mr. and Mrs. George Mulholland ("Oura Station", Wagga), silver afternoon tea set; Messrs. W. R. and J. Mulholland, set of gent's brushes; Misses Jean and Annabel Mulholland, manicure set; Bride's parents, cheque; Sisters of Bride, writing desk, Maltese lace collar, and photo-frames; Mr. W. T. Crain, brother, cheque; Mr. and Mrs. Eyles, handsome lady's dressing-case; Bridegroom's parents (Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McNickle, Wagga), cheque; Mrs. Davidson, aunt, case of fruit and fish knives; Bridegroom to Bride, diamond ring; Mrs. Jane McIntyre, grandmother, pair silver serviette rings; Mr. F. C. Park (Gundagai), solid silver afternoon tea spoons; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Webb, silver butter dish and knives; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Evans (Hurstville), cheque; Mr. Cecil McIntyre, biscuit barrel; Mr. Willie McNickle, bridegroom's brother, cheque; Mr. Lome Macdonald, silver toast rack; Mr. Wright (Wollongong), cheque.

LOVE – KELLY

The marriage of Mr. Roland John Love, manager of the Marmadilla Station, Queensland, and third son of Mr. William Love, of Kew, Melbourne, and Miss Mary (Polly) Kelly, eldest daughter of Mr. James Kelly, Cambusdoon was celebrated at the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday 20th December, by the Rev Alexander McClinchie.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in a very handsome trained dress of white corded silk, tucked chiffon ribbon, pearl buckles, and wreath and veil, and looked extremely pretty. She was attended by her two sisters as bridesmaids — Misses Addie and Tottie Kelly. They wore pretty costumes of white embroidered muslin, sea green, white satin and lace trimmings, cream silk insertion, apricot sash and bebe ribbon respectively. Mr. William Kelly officiated as groomsman.

The bride's travelling dress was cauliflower blue bengaline, trimmed with cream silk, with hat to match trimmed with ostrich plumes, pink roses and chiffon. After the ceremony was over the company drove to Cambusdoon, the residence of the bride's parents, where the wedding breakfast was partaken of, and which was tastefully laid out in a large marquee improvised for the occasion and suitably decorated with evergreens, etc. About 50 persons, principally relatives and intimate friends of the family, were present. The Rev. Mr. M'Clinchie made a capital chairman. The usual toasts were given and responded to. Too much praise cannot be given to those friends who so tastefully decorated the church, the interior having a very pleasing effect, the contracting parties standing under a pretty wedding bell. Miss Bessie Knight played the Wedding March (Mendelsohn's) in her usual good style.

Mr. and Mrs. Love left by the evening mail train amid showers of rice, confetti, and good wishes, for Sydney to spend a short honeymoon; thence to Brisbane, en route for their future home.

The presents included: From mother of the bride, house linen; father of the bride, cheque; Messrs. Will and Sid Kelly, cheques; Misses Addie and Linda Kelly, morocco bound bible; Miss Tottie Kelly, hand-painted panel; Masters Gordon and Jim Kelly, silver spoons and butter knife; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams (Dubbo), silver hot water urn and box of perfumery; Mr. and Mrs. James Snodgrass, silver teapot; Mr. Hillam, cheque; Mrs. Hillam, fancy writing desk and glassware; Mrs. Allen (Narrandera), claret jug and glasses; Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, butter dish; Mr and Mrs. John Ross (Kinross), cheque; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ross (Hillside), silver sugar scuttle and scoop; Messrs. Frank and Ross Hillam, silver butter basin; Mr. and Mrs. W. Boyd (Narrandera), cut glass fruit stand; Mr. and Mrs. James Snodgrass, jun., silver sugar scuttle; Mr. John Snodgrass, silver-mounted hot water jug and bell; Miss Hillam, pair of cut glass fruit stands; Mr. Alex. MURPHY – MOLLOY

Our Grong Grong correspondent writes :— The marriage of Miss Rosetta Molloy, second eldest daughter of Mr. M. Molloy of this town, to Mr. James Murphy, of Cowabbie, and eldest son of Mr. Edward Murphy, O'Connel's Park, Matong, was solemnised by the Rev. Father Grey at the Roman Catholic Presbytery, Narrandera, on Wednesday, the 6th instant.

The bride, who was handsomely attired in white silk with chiffon insertion and lace trimmings, together with the ordinary wreath and veil, was given away by her father. Miss M. Murphy and Miss M. Molloy, sisters of the bride and bridegroom, acted as bridesmaids. The former was attired in cream shower of hail muslin, lace trimmings and white sash, she also wore a beautiful white Leghorn hat trimmed with white ribbon, chiffon and lipps. The latter looked becoming in white voile with silk trimmings, and white hat trimmed with chiffon flowers and feathers. Mr. Michael Murphy acted as groomsman.

Only the immediate friends and relations of the contracting parties were present at the ceremony, after which a wedding breakfast, prepared by Mrs. Delaney, of Narrandera, was partaken of.

The usual toasts for such an occasion were honored. The happy pair subsequently left by mail train amidst the congratulations of their friends and showers of rice. This form of congratulation was repeated at each station along the line as far as Coolamon. At Junee the express for Melbourne was caught, where the honeymoon is to be spent. The wedding presents were beautiful and numerous. The brides travelling dress was blue voile with white satin front and lace insertion and toque to match.

PATTERSON – LORD

A marriage was celebrated last evening at St. John's Chapel by the Rev. G. A. Carver, the contracting parties being John Patterson, of Wagga, to Emily Martha Lord, youngest daughter of the late Hugh Lord, of Geralgambeth, and sister to Mrs. J. K. Fuller, of Wagga.

The bride, who was handsomely gowned, was given away by Mr. J. R. Fuller. The bridesmaid, Miss Jane Lord, sister of the bride, was dressed in a white pique skirt, with a white ponge silk blouse.

After the ceremony an adjournment was made to the residence of Mrs. J. R. Fuller, where a few of the friends of the married couple spent an enjoyable evening. A number of useful and ornamental presents were received and were artistically displayed for the benefit of the visitors. The bride wore during the evening a dove grey satin cloth costume, relieved with white satin and a white fancy straw hat, trimmed with white chiffon and ostrich feathers.

DODD – DAVIES

A quiet wedding took place on Easter Monday morning, when Mr Henry Mayes Dodd, late of the Union Bank, Wagga Wagga, and now of Grenfell, was married to Miss Emily Elizabeth Davies, eldest daughter of the late Mr David J. Davies, Twickenham, England, and of Mrs Davies, late of "Stirling College", Wagga. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. A. Carver, at St. John's Church.

The bride, who was given away by Mr T.S. Gardiner, was attired in a white silk dress, trimmed with Valenciennes insertion and lace. She also wore a tulle veil and sprays of white orange blossom in the hair and on the bodice of the dress, and carried an ivory covered prayer book, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaids were Miss Clara Davies, Miss Beryl Gardiner, and Miss Stuart Pennycook. The first two wore white Indian lawn dresses, trimmed with rucks of insertion and turquoise bebe ribbon. Their hats were of turquoise blue straw, trimmed with chiffon and ostrich feathers to match, and large paste buckles. Miss Stuart Pennycook wore a white silk frock, and white velvet hat caught up at the side with white ostrich plumes. The bridesmaids also wore turquoise and pearl rings, the gifts of the bridegroom, and carried baskets of pink and white cosmos and ferns. The bridegroom was attended by Mr C. Ross as best man, and Mr Stanley Gardiner and Master Ramsay Pennycook acted as groomsmen.

At the conclusion of the service Mr F. C. Barry, the organist, played Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March'. The bridal party then returned to the residence of Mr and Mrs T. S. Gardiner, Bank of New South Wales, where refreshments were served. Owing to a recent bereavement in the bridegroom's family, only relatives and immediate friends were present.

Mr and Mrs Dodd left by the mail train for Melbourne, the bride wearing a pale grey tweed dress, with vest of white satin, braided with narrow gold braid, and toque of black chiffon trimmed with feathers, ospreys, and buckles.

The wedding presents – over fifty in number – were handsome and valuable.

WESTON – EDWARDS

A quiet wedding was solemnised at St. John's Church of England, Gundagai, by the Rev. A. C. Mosley on Wednesday afternoon, May 15th, when Miss Louise Jane (Louie) Edwards, fourth eldest daughter of the late Mr. F. W. Edwards, of Wollongong, was married to Mr. Percy George Weston, fifth son of Mr. James Weston, of "The Prairie", Bowthorne, Hinton (near Maitland).

The church was tastefully decorated, and the initials of the bride and bridegroom were beautifully done in white flowers by the members of the choir, of which Mr. Weston was a prominent member during his residence in Gundagai, and friends of the bride. As the bridal party entered the church the choir sang the wedding hymn, "The voice that breathed o'er Eden".

The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. E. T. Drake, of Wagga, wore a pretty dress of ivory surah silk, made with a beautifully tucked train, and trimmed with Brussels lace and chiffon, a coronet of orange blossoms and embossed tulle veil, and carried an ivory-bound prayer book and a shower bouquet, which, with a diamond heart pendant, were gifts from the bridegroom. Miss Florence Edwards, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a light grey voile dress, trimmed with white silk, gold lace, and black bebe ribbon, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, and wore a gold brooch set with pearls, and a pearl pendant attached, the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. S. H. Hill (Sydney) acted as best man.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Professor Mahony played the Wedding March. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's sister, where refreshments were served and the usual toasts honored. Mr. and Mrs. Weston then left for Sydney, where they intend spending their honey- moon. The bride travelled in an electric blue voile, trimmed with velvet, white silk, and gold braid, and a pretty toque.

BATEMAN - THOMSON

On Saturday evening, May 25th, at the residence of the bride's parents, Tompson Street, Newtown, a quiet but very pretty wedding was celebrated, the parties to the union being Miss Mary Alfreda (Minnie) Thompson, daughter of Mr. C. Thomson, Wagga, and Mr. Samuel Bateman, of Messrs. Shaw and Sons, Wagga.

The bridal dress was of ivory figured silk, zouave of ivory satin, with chiffon trimmings, and the usual veil and wreath of orange blossoms. The bride also carried a handsome bouquet of white roses and ferns, and was attended by four bridesmaids, Misses Allie and Ruby Thompson, sisters of the bride, who wore coral pink silk; and Misses Freda and Rita Carmody, nieces of the bride, wearing cream serge costumes.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the bride was presented with a beautifully bound morocco-bound Bible by the Rev. C. Bell, who officiated. Mr. W. Jacobs attended as best man.

The presents received were very numerous and costly. Conspicuous among them was a handsome silver-backed brush and comb, presented by the choir members of St. Andrews' Church, of which Miss Thompson was a prominent member for many years, also a silver jam dish from the members of her Sunday class, which was accompanied with the following address :—" Dear Miss Thompson,—On the occasion of your approaching marriage, we, the girls in your class of St. Andrew's Sunday School, wish to express our gratitude to you for the kindly and devoted manner in which you have fulfilled your duties as our teacher, and, as a slight token of the affection we have for you, we ask you to accept the accompanying gift. We join in wishing you a happy married life, and sincerely hope that you will in the future, as in the past, be still our help and guide. We are, yours affectionately, Gracie Anderson, Annie Edmunds, Jessie Lament, Jessie Mitchel, Madeline Meldrum, Lily Sellick, Florrie De Groot, Violet Bruce, Emily Meldrum, May Irving, Ella Graham, Leila Ayling". The bridegroom's gifts to the bride were a diamond brooch and ring; to the chief bridesmaid, gold brooch of pearls and emeralds; to Miss Ruby Thomson, gold cable bangle; and to the Misses Carmody, gold bell brooches.

Mr. and Mrs. Bateman left for Sydney by the 11.30 p m. express, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride's going away dress was dark green cloth bolero and skirt, pink silk blouse, with toque to match. They were seen off by a very large gathering of friends.

WINDEYER - NOYES

The marriage of Miss Florence Marion Noyes, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. Finch Noyes, of Laverstock, Deniliquin, with Mr. Archibald Hulbert Windeyer, only son of the late Walter Orton Windeyer, of Wantabadgery, Wagga Wagga, and Mrs. Windeyer, of Chandos-street, Ashfield, was celebrated at St. Paul's Church, Deniliquin, on August 21.

A great number of spectators assembled outside the church long before the hour appointed for the wedding, and towards 11 o'clock the guests commenced to arrive. The church was decorated with choice flowers by friends of the bride, and hanging from the sides of the sanctuary the letters 'A' and 'B,' the bride and bridegroom's initials, were worked in white and blue violets, appeared, while a marriage bell was suspended from the arch. Mr. H. C. Parker, of Mathoura, acted as best man.

The bride was attended by Master B. Landale and Miss Sadie Cotton, the two little trainbearers, and the bridesmaids, Miss Noyes and Miss Madge Noyes. The bride wore a long-trained dress of white crepe de chine, the skirt being trimmed with Honiton lace, and finished at the foot with a deep accordion-pleated frill edged with rows of narrow satin ribbon. The bodice had transparent yoke and sleeves of Honiton lace, the long tulle veil was fastened with a pearl crescent brooch, the gift of the bridegroom's mother. The beautiful bouquet carried was composed of orchids and azaleas.

The bridesmaids wore dresses of cream silk voile and white chip picture hats, trimmed with pink roses and black velvet; they carried bouquets of pink carnations, and wore pearl and turquoise circlet brooches, the gift of the bridegroom. The ceremony was performed by the Bishop of Riverina, assisted by the Ven. Archdeacon Holt.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bride and bridegroom drove to Laverstock, where Dr. and Mrs. Noyes entertained a large number of their friends. About 80 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Windeyer left for Melbourne by the midday train. — 'S.M. Herald.'

PIKE – WALKER

The Wesleyan Church, Tenterfield, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, December 18, when about 200 people assembled to witness the marriage of Mr. David A. Pike and Miss Violet Walker. Until three months ago Mr. Pike held the position of assistant teacher in the Tenterfield Public School, when he was removed to the Fort-street Model school, Sydney The bridegroom is the youngest son of Mr. J. A. Pike, Camelot, Coolamon, and the bride the eldest daughter of Mr. T. M. Walker, Mayor of Tenterfield.

Just at 3 o'clock the sweet organ strains of "The Voice that breathed o'er Eden," played by Miss Ethel Reid, heralded the entry of the bride, accompanied by her father and the bridesmaids. The strong choir sang the words of the hymn. The Rev. M. H. Parkinson impressively performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a white brocaded silk costume, trimmed with chiffon and lace, and a lovely embroidered veil, and was attended by three bridesmaids, the Misses Jessie and Doris Walker and Beatrice Morton. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. E. Drew, a fellow teacher with Mr. Pike at Fort Street.

As the bridal party left the church Miss Reid gave a spirited rendition of the Wedding March.

A reception was subsequently held at Rose Villa, the home of the bride's parents, after which a large number of guests sat down to the wedding breakfast. The Rev. M. D Parkinson, in a felicitously worded speech on behalf of the company, wished the newly wedded couple all this world's happiness, which toast was responded to by the bridegroom. Other toasts were duly honoured. The couple were the recipients of a host of handsome presents, including a lovely writing desk from the Wesleyan Church choir, and a silver egg cruet and salt cellars from the Sunday school.

CROAKER – SHARPE

An exceedingly pretty wedding was (the "Forbes Times" says) celebrated at St. John's Church of England on Wednesday last, when Mr. Arthur Hamilton Croaker , manager of the Bank of New South Wales at Henty, near Albury, was married to Miss Muriel Maude Sharpe , daughter of Mr. E. A. L. Sharpe, police magistrate, Forbes, the Rev. W. J. Dunstan officiating.

Th church had been very nicely decorated by lady friends of the bride, and a large number had assembled to witness the ceremony. The weather, which had been threatening nearly all the morning, held up most auspiciously.

After the wedding service was concluded the party drove to "Koyong," the residence of the bride's parents. Upwards of a hundred guests were assembled, and a most liberal array of refreshments had been provided in the capacious verandahs and in a large marquee which had been erected for the occasion. The usual congratulatory and complimentary toasts were given and res-ponded to, and shortly after 2 o'clock the newly-wedded pair, accompanied by a large con-course of friends, were driven to the railway station enroute for Tasmania.

At the station the platform was packed from end to end, and after the last good-byes had been said and resaid, the last door slammed and the engine shrieked an impatient whistle, cheer after cheer was sent up as the departing train was lost to sight in a rift of the hill which marked its eastward way.

DOYLE – CROMMELIN

On Saturday last, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Crommelin, Grenfell, was (the Grenfell "Vedette" says) the scene of a pretty wedding, on the occasion of the marriage of their eldest daughter Madolin Crommelin, with Mr. Leonard C. Doyle, of Wagga, son of Mr. C. E. Doyle, Dartmouth, Muswellbrook.

The bride — who entered the drawing-room (where the wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Lane) on the arm of her father — looked very sweet in rich white silk edged with pleated chiffon, the bodice being prettily draped with real orange blossom. The skirt was trimmed with silk applique and tucks. The usual wreath and veil was tastefully arranged with diamond clasps. A pearl brooch and pendant and an exquisite bouquet, the gifts of the bridegroom, were the only other ornaments worn by the bride.

The bridesmaids, Miss K. Crommelin and Miss M. Newman, wore very pretty dresses of white shower-of-hail muslin over butter-cup slips, large picture hats to match. They wore pearl brooches and carried shower bouquets, also the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. A. L. Crommelin acted as best man, and Mr. P. F. Meagher as groomsman. The Wedding March was played by Miss McCarthy.

After the ceremony, about 70 guests were entertained in the dining-room, refreshments being handed round. Rev. Father Lane proposed the health of the bride and bride-groom, and the toast was supported by Mr. Hall and Mr. Grimm. Mr. Doyle suitably responded, and proposed "The Bridesmaids," for whom Mr A. L. Crommelin and Mr. P. F. Meagher responded. Mr. J. Q. Wood, of Brundah, proposed "The Bride's Parents," and Mr. Crommelin, in a few well-chosen words, replied.

The happy couple left by the 2 p.m. train for Sydney, en route for Kiama. The bride's travelling dress was navy blue lustre, trimmed with crepe de chine and oriental embroidery, hat to match. The train moved off the station amid showers of confetti and rice.

SCOTT – EVANS

The marriage of Miss Sarah M. Evans , fourth daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Evans of Wagga Wagga, with Mr. Sidney G. Scott , only son of Mr. D. Scott, of Summer Hill, took place at the Methodist Church, Stanmore, on Thursday, October 15.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Sellors in the presence of a large number of guests and spectators. The church was artistically decorated by friends of the bride, the principal feature being an arch of white flowers with wedding bell suspended.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. G. P. Evans, of Wyalong, wore a dress of ivory satin and chiffon. The bodice was made with transparent yoke, the elbow sleeves being finished with accordion-pleated frills of chiffon; her tulle veil was arranged over a wreath of orange blossoms, and she wore a gold cable bangle, which, with her shower bouquet, was the bridegroom's gift.

Miss Ethel Evans, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and wore cream voile and a cream picture hat with ostrich feathers, and carried a bouquet of dark red roses, which, with a gold necklet and pearl heart pendant, was a gift from the bride groom. Mr. Lancelot Evans was best man.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party drove to the Petersham Town Hall, where a largely attended reception was held, and the young couple received the congratulations of their friends, and the wedding breakfast was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Scott left for the Blue Mountains, where the honeymoon was spent, the bride travelling in an electric-blue voile and cream crinoline hat with cream tips.

ANGEL – THOMPSON

A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated on Saturday at St. John's Church by the Rev. A. C. Mosley. the contracting parties. being Mr. Albert Edward Thompson , third son of the late Mr. P. Thompson of Lake Albert and Henrietta May (Ettie) eldest daughter of Mr. Henry Angel of Wagga.

The bride groom was accompanied by Mr. H. G W. Angel as groomsman. The bride who entered the church on the arm of her father (who subsequently gave her away) was beautifully attired in white silk made over white satin, prettily tucked and shirred. The train was also flounced with chiffon. The bodice was also shirred and trimmed with insertion. while over her wreath of orange blossom she wore an embroidered veil. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses carnations, and lilies of the valley mingled with asparagus fern, and tied with white ribbon. This with a magnificent diamond brooch were gifts from the bridegroom.

She was attended by her sister Miss Ethel Angel and Miss Stella Thompson (niece of the bridegroom. They were gracefully attired in white silk, the skirts had shirred flounces and rows of insertion to the waist, bodice, to match, chiffon applique being introduced very artistically. Their white chip hats had a wreath of pink roses and a lining of tucked chiffon. Their bouquets of pink carnations and maiden hair fern tied with pink ribbon and pretty gold brooches were gifts from the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, a small reception was held at 'Montrose' the residence of the bride's parents. The choice collection of well-chosen wedding souvenirs which the bride received were displayed for view, amongst them being the following presentations: Solid silver hot water kettle on stand, silver sugar scuttle and biscuit barrel from a number of friends, also a massive silver gong and tea service from Dr. and Mrs Thompson of Melbourne.

Mr. and Mrs Thompson left by express amidst showers of rice and confetti for Sydney, en-route for Bega. when the honeymoon will be spent. The bride's travelling dress was a very dainty pale blue foulard trimmed with Paris guipure burnt straw hat prettily trimmed with pale blue chiffon and pink roses.

The wedding cake which was greatly admired by the guests was the work of Mr. D. S. Cameron of Fitzmaurice street.

JONES – O'MALLEY

At 2. 30. p.m. on Tuesday afternoon, in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, the marriage took place of Miss Josephine (Jose) Jones , youngest daughter of Mrs. Jones, "Cibrah", Baylis-street, and of the late Mr. James Jones, to Mr. James Aloysius O'Malley , whose home is at Bathurst, though he now resides in Sydney, and formerly he was employed in some of the leading drapery establishments in Wagga.

As the bride was one of the prominent members of the Church, a great deal of interest was created amongst the Catholic community and especially the female portion of it, the centre of the Church being well filled with onlookers, and as a mark of honour, the Holy Altar was suitably adorned for the occasion with blue and white drapery. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. Slattery, V.G., and the bride was given away by her brother Mr. E. Jones. Mr. Austin Donnelly, of Mount Austin, acted as best man, and Mr. Guss Jones assisted as -groomsman. Miss Mary McGarry and Miss Persia Rutter, nieces of the bride, attended as bridesmaids.

The bride who looked charming, was dressed in white, decorated with insertion and chiffon trimmings, whilst she also wore a veil sur-mounted with a wreath of orange blossoms. In her hand she carried an ivory bound prayer book the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were attired in white lawn with large white hats to match and they also wore gold photo pendants set with pearls, the gifts of the bridegroom.

After the service, the bridal party returned to the bride's home where felicitations were offered to the newly married couple, and they subsequently left by the mail train for Petersham, Sydney, their future home. The presents forwarded to both bride and bridegroom were both numerous and costly. The bride's present to the bridegroom was a Morocco dressing case.

As previously mentioned, the bride was an enthusiastic Church worker and was secretary of the Children of Mary as well as being one of the officials of the Hibernian Society. At a special meeting of the Children of Mary on Sun-day afternoon, the bride elect was presented with a beautiful holy picture and suitable presents were also made to her by the sisters of the Mount Erin Convent. Mr. J. M. Wild supplied the carriages.

SMYTH - McNICKLE

The marriage was celebrated in St. Andrews' (Presbyterian) Church, Wagga. on Wednesday afternoon of Mr. Daniel F. W. McNickle, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McNickle. of Kurrajong Park, Wagga, and Miss Aimee Smyth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Smyth, of 'Fairfield', Yerong Creek.

The event created considerable interest, as both the bride and bridegroom are members of prominent families in the district and are very popular in wide circles of friends. Consequently, at the hour appointed for the marriage the church contained a large gathering of interested friends of both the young people. Their popularity, moreover, was evidenced by the profuse floral decorations which adorned the church, and the attendance of the choir to give the service a choral character. Miss Allen presided at the organ, and as the bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. J. D. Smyth, the choir sang the hymn "How Welcome is the Call".

The bride's gown was composed of French white glace silk. The skirt was finely pin tucked, showing panels or hopped blond silk insertion, finished at the bottom with graduated frills of tucked chiffon, which formed a graceful train, and was veiled in embroidered tulle and caught with bunches of orange blossoms.

The bodice was artistically arranged with silk blond lace, forming a cascade, caught up with pearl medallions, motifs, and notches of white silk velvet; a transparent yoke lined in chiffon, full tucked San Toy sleeves, with deep cut-over which fell tucked chiffon Angel sleeves, and finished with tasselled medallions.

This becoming creation was completed with the orthodox veil, caught on the left side of the head with a coronet of orange blossoms and diamond dagger. She also wore a handsome gold star pendant, and carried a white shower bouquet, with white satin streamers, the gifts of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaids were Miss May Smyth (sister of bride) and Miss Florrie McEntyre (cousin of bridegroom). Miss Smyth was costumed in cream canvas confetti cloth made over glace silk, and trimmed with faggot stitching, pin tucks on skirt:- deep circular flounce bounded with bebe ribbon and faggot stitching. The bodice was made with the new circular yoke, draped with ecru Oriental lace and Paris insertion in tone of two shades; Paris horsehair hat, trimmed with ostrich feathers, tucked chiffon uncrushable ribbon and cowslip, making an elegant and chic combination.

Miss McEntyre wore a very handsome costume of cream canvas voile, with a deep transparent yoke-of Paris lace, and rucked skirt trimmed with silk bebe ribbon; cream fancy chip hat, trimmed with chiffon and chiffon streamers. The maids carried very pretty bouquets of autumn leaves., roses, with cactus dahlias, set off with satin streamers, the gifts of the bridegroom. They also wore gold medallions, set with pearls, the gifts of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. W. J. B. McIntyre (cousin) and Mr. Walter McIntyre (brother). Rev. Chas. Bell solemnised the marriage, and the bride was given away by her brother Mr. J. D. Smyth. While the documents were being signed, the choir sang "O God of Bethel", and as the bridal party left the church Miss Allen played Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March.

The breakfast was held at Millent's Criterion Hotel. There were about fifty guests. The dining hall was splendidly fitted out in the manner of decorations, and the table furnishings and viands were of the most delectable character reflecting the greatest credit on Mrs. Millenet, who also made the bride's cake. Rev. Chas. Bell presided at the special request of the parties, and in the subsequent proceedings he proposed the health of the bride and bridegroom. In a felicitous speech he remarked that there was only one wish in all their hearts, namely that the young couple might have a long and happy life and a long and useful career. The bridegroom made an appropriate response. The toast, of the bridesmaids was proposed by the best man, Mr. McIntyre, coupled with the names of Mr. and Mrs. Smyth and Mr. and Mrs. McNickle. As the bride and bridegroom had to leave by the mail train, the proceedings were not prolonged, and the toast of the chairman concluded the list.

Mr. and Mrs. McNickle left by the afternoon mail train for Sydney. The bride's travelling dress was a silver-grey weft voile, in delicate pastille shade, with silk pin spots; handsomely tucked two-piece skirt, finished with shirred and tucked flounce, and strapped with flowered silk point applique gabion in two tone of Wedgewood blue. The bodice was made with box-pleated coffee coat, showing a vest of white silk, veiled with tucked chiffon, cape and stole and collar of Wedgewood blue velvet encircled with applique, boxed pleated sleeves, revealing a deep tight fitting sleeve underneath. She also wore a graceful rich black beaver hat in the picture style, trimmed with ostrich feathers, pame ribbon, steel arrows and buckler and ospreys, and grey feather boa. As the train drew out of the station the bride and bridegroom were cheered by a large gathering of friends and showered with expressions and tokens of good wishes.

Both bride and bridegroom were the recipients of a large number of handsome presents, the list of which is: Bridegroom to bride, star pendant; bridegroom to bridesmaids, medallions; mother of bride, house, linen; father and brothers of bride, cheque; bridegrooms' parents, cheque and furniture; Mr. and Mrs. E. Sullings (sister of bride). Manning River, floral satin eider down quilt, bed spread, pillow shams, nightdress sachet in shadow work, and ivory embroidered table centre; Mrs. E. J. ELLIOTT - KENNEALLY

A popular marriage took place at St. Michael's Catholic Church, Wagga, at eight o'clock last evening when Miss Matilda (Tilly) Elliott, daughter of Mr. Job Robins Elliott, of Gurwood Street, was joined in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. Arthur Joseph Kenneally, only son of the late Mr. Michael Joseph Kenneally. Both the bride and bridegroom are very well known in the town and their prospective marriage was an event looked forward to with great interest for some considerable time past.

The bride has lived in Wagga all her life. She has made herself useful in many ways and it was a matter of no surprise to her friends to notice so many handsome presents. She has for years been identified with St. Michael's Church Choir, but perhaps she has been more widely known as the efficient pianist included in Mrs. Mulligan's popular orchestra. The bridegroom is an accountant with the well-known firm of Messrs. Edmondson and Co. is a prominent member of St. Michael's Church, and until recently he discharged with great credit and efficiency the duties of secretary of the Wagga Citizen's Band. As conclusive proof of the popularity of the young couple who were about to enter upon life together it may be mentioned that for the ceremony the Church was packed with interested onlookers. Indeed, it was with a little difficulty that the bridal party marched down the aisle. The service which was fully choral was conducted Rev. Father Ryan who tied the nuptial knot. The musical portion of the service included the singing of an Ave Maria by Miss Josephine O'Connor, the organist of the Church, who subsequent to the actual ceremony, pealed forth on the organ the strains of Mendelsohn's Wedding March.

The bride was attended by only one bridesmaid, her sister, Miss Kitty Elliot, whilst Mr. M. E Mongan attended as best man. The bride was handsomely attired in cream silk voile and a beautiful, and it may be said, almost unique veil of Irish point lace surmounted with a wreath of orange blossoms. Besides her wedding ring she wore a magnificent emerald and diamond ring and carried a charming shower bouquet, both the gifts of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid, Miss Kitty Elliott looked very pretty in cream voile and large picture hat decorated with cream ribbon and lace. She wore a gold bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom.

The happy couple were given a great reception on leaving the Church. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kenneally were 'at home' to some of their relatives, and more immediate friends in the evening and the jollity was sustained until the hour approached when it was necessary to catch the express for Sydney where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride's travelling dress was of turquoise blue voile trimmed with cream insertion and black picture hat. The presents received made a delightful display and numbered over a hundred. Private friends and relatives sent along some lovely gifts and the following were received from public sources: - From Edmondson and Co.'s staff, silver tray and afternoon tea set; Citizen's Band, silver bread tray, silver sugar bowl and address; Mrs. Milligan's Orchestra, silver tea pot and set of vases; St. Michael's choir, pair serviette rings; and from M.U., I.O.O.F. Lodge, Silver egg stand.

O'REGAN – KEATING

Yesterday morning a very pretty wedding was celebrated in St. Michael's Catholic Church, when Miss Ellinor M. (Cissie) O'Regan, youngest daughter of Mr. Jeremiah O'Regan, of Newtown, Wagga and sister of Mr. J. F. O'Regan, butcher, was married to Mr. Nicholas J. Keating, of Port Fairy, Victoria. The ceremony was performed at 6.45 a.m. by the Very Rev. Father Slattery, V. G. assisted by Rev. Father Clune and Rev. Father McDermott, the two missionaries of the Redemptionist order, at present in Wagga. The altar was very prettily decorated, the blending of the blue and white, the colours of the Sodality of the Children of Mary being very effective. The bride being a member of the Sodality, the members, numbering about sixty, honoured her with their presence.

She was given away by her father, and was attended by Miss Mary O'Regan (sister), and Miss Eleanor O'Regan, cousin of the bride. Mr. Nicholas Keating (cousin of the bridegroom) was the best man. The bride was beautifully dressed in cream serge with chiffon and silk trimmings and a handsome veil surmounted with a wreath of orange blossoms. The bridesmaids also wore cream dresses and were greatly admired. After the marriage, a nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McDermott. Appropriate music was rendered by the Church choir, and on the organ by the Church organist, Miss Josephine O'Connor.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents subsequently, to which the immediate friends of the family only were invited. The newly married couple left for Melbourne by the mail train in the morning en-route for Port Fairy. They were the recipients of numerous presents and the numerous Wagga friends of the bride sent along many tokens of their good will. For a long time, the bride had been a popular member of St. Michael's choir and the choristers sent her a handsome present, and the members of the Sodality of the Children of Mao* presented her with a costly gift.

BROADRIBB – ANNISON

A very quiet wedding was celebrated on Wednesday, 2nd November, at the residence of the bride's parents, the contracting parties being Mr. William T. Annison , of Lake Albert, and Miss Emily K. Broadribb , daughter of Mr. F. Broadribb, of Mt. Hope, Ladysmith. Only the immediate relatives were present at the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a costume or cream voile, prettily trimmed with chiffon and lace, and wore the customary wreath and veil, and was attended by her sisters, Misses May and Laura Broadribb, as bridesmaids, while Mr. C. Annison acted as best man. Rev. A. C. Mosley officiated; the Wedding March being nicely played by Miss Florrie Broadribb.

After the ceremony, an adjournment was made to the spacious dining-room, where luncheon was partaken of, and the usual toasts were honoured, the health of the .bride and bridegroom being ably proposed by the Rev. A. C. I Mosley. The happy couple left shortly after for their future home at Lake Albert. The young couple were the recipients of a large number of pretty and useful articles, which speaks volumes for the esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

MUMFORD – MCGEOCH

A very pretty wedding took place in St. John's Church, Wagga, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the parties submitting themselves to unity in the bonds of wedlock being Miss Emma Maria Mumford, only daughter of an old and well-respected Wagga family which had the late Mr. Edward Mumford as its head, and Mr. Charles Evelyn McGeoch of Egan Creek station Yerong.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. C. Mosley, rector of St. John's parish, and it was witnessed by an interested crowd of both visitors and friends. As the wedding party entered the church the bridal hymn, 'The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden', was played by Mr. Herbert Webb, the organist of St. John's, who also played the melodious strains of the Wedding March at the close. The bride and bridegroom made an admirable pair as they stood at the altar the bride being given away by her brother Mr. George T. Mumford. Mr. A. C. Chandler acted as best man, and the bride was supported by Miss Grace Mumford (her niece) as bridesmaid, and the Misses Olga and Alma Mumford two younger nieces, as train bearers.

The bride looked beautiful in a dress of white glace silk, handsomely trimmed with Paris lace, insertion and tucks and chiffon frill, and wore the orthodox wreath and veil, whilst she also carried an exquisite shower bouquet, the gift, of the bridegroom. Amongst her jewellery was included a gold watch and muff chain studded with turquoise, also the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid (Miss Grace Mumford) wore a lovely dress of cream silk, trimmed with silk tuchon insertion and finely tucked. She wore a handsome gold bamboo bracelet and carried a shower bouquet the gifts of the bridegroom. The trainbearers (Miss. O. and A. Mumford) were generally admired and were attired in cream voile over buttercup handsomely trimmed whilst they carried baskets of red roses and wore gold chains and pendants, all the gifts of the bridegroom. The bride did not appear to be at all nervous and smiled sweetly on her friends coming down the aisle of the Church on the arm of her husband.

Immediately following the ceremony, a sumptuous breakfast was provided at the home of the bride's mother in Baylis street. Forty guests sat down, and the usual toasts were most happily and enthusiastically honoured. The happy couple left by the paper train for Albury en route for Melbourne where the honeymoon will be spent after which they will return to Little Springs, their future home. The majority of the guests were at the station to see them off and plentifully showered them with rice ere the train passed out of the station. The bride's travelling dress was a pretty electric blue silk gimpe with blue velvet trimmings, and a large white picture hat with ostrich feathers.

The following is a list of the presents: Bridegroom to bride, gold watch and muff chain, turquoise setting, and shower bouquet; bride to bridegroom, Gold sleeve links; mother of the bride, house linen; bridegroom to chief bridesmaid (Miss Grace Mumford). gold bamboo bracelet and shower bouquet; second bridesmaids (Misses Olga and Alma Mumford). pretty gold pendant and chain; Mr. S. HOPKINS – BAKER

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnised by the Rev. Father Slattery on Wednesday evening. The contracting parties were Miss Jessie E Hopkins , eldest daughter of Mrs. A. T. Hopkins, and of the late Mr. Patrick Grant Hopkins, of Peter Street, Wagga and Mr. John Thomas Baker , of Wagga.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. E. Hopkins. She was attired in a beautiful gown of dove grey voile, prettily tucked, with a transparent yoke of lace and chiffon, and a pretty hat to match, and wore a gold brooch with diamonds, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a beautiful bouquet, the gift of Mrs. J. J. Crummy. Mr. W. Fitzgerald, cousin of the bride, acted as best man. The bridesmaid was Miss Aggie Hopkins, sister of the bride, who wore a pretty dress of cream muslin, and a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom, and also carried a bouquet, the gift of Mrs. J. J. Crummy.

As the bridal party left the church they received the full complement of roses and rice. They then proceeded to the residence of the bride's mother, where the reception was held, and the usual toasts duly honoured. Afterwards, Mr. and Mrs. Baker left for their future home at Ladysmith. The presents were numerous and costly.

On Wednesday afternoon, at half-past four o'clock, the marriage was quietly celebrated at 'Cloughbaue', Forsyth Street, Wagga, the residence of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. P. Hill, of Miss Isabella A. Gray, youngest daughter of the late Mr. John Gray, timber merchant, of Wagga, to Mr. Ernest J. Edwards, eldest son of Mr. John Edwards, of Drysdale, Victoria.

The bride being a member of a family of long and honourable connection in Wagga, is well known, and is not only popular because of her family connections, but also for the wealth of personal graces which she possesses. All her life she has been closely identified with the Wagga Methodist Church. Since girlhood she has been a member of the church choir, was a devoted member of the Christian Endeavor Society, and for a long time she has rendered invaluable service to the Sunday School, her abilities qualifying her in a high degree for the important position as teacher in charge of the infants' department. The local church folks, at the Kitchen tea last week, showed in a marked degree the high appreciation which they entertained of Miss Gray's services, as well as of her personal character. The marriage ceremony was carried out in accordance with the ritual of the Methodist Church, and the officiating minister was Rev. G. C. Percival. There were a large number of guests present, including Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fletcher.

The bride entered the room leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. John Gray, who subsequently gave her away. She had as bridesmaids, two of her little nieces, Miss Dorothy Henningham and Miss Winifred Hill. Mr. A. C. Cowin acted as best man. At the close of the ceremony proper, the hymn, 'The Voice that breathed O'er Eden', was sung. The bride looked charming in a dress of cream silk voile material trimmed with lace and insertion and ribbon streamers. She also wore a veil with a wreath of orange blossom, and carried a very tastefully arranged bouquet, composed principally of white flowers. Her little bridesmaids were as pretty as possible in white Persian muslin tucked and valenciennes lace and insertion, whilst in their hands, they carried tiny baskets of beautiful flowers. They wore handsome gold brooches, the gifts of the bridegroom.

Following upon the ceremony, a breakfast was given, the guests being seated round a special table on the spacious back veranda, where they had the benefit of the cool breeze. After full justice had been done to the dainties provided, the Rev. G. C. Percival, who presided, proposed the toast of the bride and bridegroom, and the bridegroom, after responding, proposed "The Bride-maids". Mr. A. C. Cowin who responded, in turn, proposed "The Guests" and Messrs. J. G. Fletcher, H. Downs and F. W. Sheffield responded. Mr. W. W. Birch. Dhulura, proposed the Host and Hostess and Mr. Hill and Mr. J. D. Birch responded. The toasts were all enthusiastically drunk and given with musical honours.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edwards left by the paper train en route for Melbourne in the evening. The guests and a large number of other friends were at the station to bid the happy couple bon voyage and a scene of unusual merriment was created by the rice throwing, all being the outcome of a sincere wish to give the newly married couple the best of send-offs which they assuredly received. The bride's travelling dress was very becoming and consisted of blue crepe voile material, trimmed with silk and cream insertion and medallions with large black hat carrying a handsome feather.

The presents were of a costly character and included: — Bridegroom to Bride. gold bangle; Bride to Bridegroom, shaving case; Bridegroom to Bridesmaids, gold brooches; Mr. J. Gray (brother), cheque; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Birch, silver breakfast cruet; Mr. and Mrs. E. Henningham, silver tea pot; Mr. and Mrs. P. Hill, silver cake dish; Mrs. Watts and family, oak biscuit barrel; Mr. and Mrs. C. Allardice, pair silver salt cellars; Mrs. Henningham (Sydney), silver hair brush and ornaments; Master Jack Norman, pair of vases; Mr. and Mrs. Colbeck, tray; Mr. and Mrs. J. Rees, silver fruit stand; Rev. G. C. and Mrs. Percival, crumb tray and brush; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fletcher, silver jam dish; Miss Hill, pair of card receivers; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Sheffield, silver sugar and cream set; Miss Wallace, silver mounted teapot stand; Miss Grace Mumford, pair doyleys; Miss Rose Birch, jam spoon and butter knife; Miss L. Skews, silver bread fork; Mr. G. Mohr. oak and silver butter dish; Miss Dorothy Henningham, pair silver serviette rings; Miss Ada Henningham, silver jam spoon; Miss Winnie Hill, scent spray; Mr. A. C. Cowin, butter knife; Mr. and Mrs. H. Downs, silver mounted pickle jars; Mrs. Hoye, silver toast rack; Miss W. Castles, silver mounted jam dish; Mrs. Ogilvie. fascinator; and a large number of kitchen tea presents from the Wagga Methodist Church Choir, Sunday School, and the C. E Society.

LOCKETT – GRAHAM

A picturesque wedding took place at St. John's Church of England yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon, when Miss Selina Jane Graham, eldest daughter of Mrs. C. Annison, of 'Mossburn', Lake Albert was united to Mr. James Lockett, second son of the late Mr. John Lockett and of Mrs. John Lockett, of 'Mountain Home', Albury Road. Both the bride and bridegroom belong to families who have resided all their lives in the Wagga district, and both of them are extremely popular amongst a wide circle of friends.

The ceremony commenced promptly at three o'clock and by that time the Church was bright with a large number of spectators interested in the event, the gentler sex predominating of course.

The bride drove up to the church with her brother, Mr. Cuthbert Graham, and as she entered leaning upon her brother's arm, a voluntary was commenced on the organ by Mr. Herbert Webb, the organist. Having been joined by the bridegroom who entered the Church through the vestry, the bride took her place in front of the altar and the ceremony was proceeded with by the Rev. A. C. Mosley, Rector of St. John's.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Cuthbert Graham and she was supported by two pretty bridesmaids, her sisters, Misses Florence and Ethel Graham, Mr. John Lockett, the bridegroom's brother, acted as best man. The bride was very generally admired and indeed she did look charming in cream silk voile attire, the trimmings being white silk and insertion, with an unusually pretty wreath and the customary bridal veil. She wore a lovely New Zealand greenstone pendant, the bridegroom's gift and carried a handsome shower bouquet also the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids looked pretty in cream canvas voile trimmed with lace and white ribbon with dainty cream picture hats trimmed with lace, cream roses and ribbon. They carried suitable bouquets and the gold necklets they wore were the gifts of the bridegroom.

The ceremony having concluded, the bridal party left the Church with the strain of Mendelssohn's Wedding March pealing in their ears and subsequently a breakfast was served at Mr. and Mrs. G. Misson's, Fitzmaurice street, friends of the bride. The tables were prettily decorated with flowers and laden with the daintiest eatables. Over the usual felicitations Rev. A. C. Mosley presided and proposed the toast of 'the bride and -bridegroom. The latter having responded proposed the toast of 'The Bridesmaids' for whom Mr. John Lockett responded. Rev. A. C. Mosley proposed the toast of the 'Brides mother and grandmother', Mrs. Annison (mother) and Mrs. G. Wild (grandmother) who were both present. Mr. Cuthbert Graham responded and proposed the toast of 'the bridegroom's mother. Mr. Tom Lockett, in responding expressed regret that owing to indisposition his mother was not able to be one of the happy party. The toasts of 'The King', 'Rev. A. C. Mosley' and 'The Press' were subsequently drunk with enthusiasm.

The newly-married couple, later on were photographed by Mr. E. Henningham and at seven o'clock left by train for Melbourne where part of the honeymoon will be spent. From Melbourne they will travel by boat to Sydney. The bride's going away dress was of blue canvas voile and large white hat trimmed with ostrich plumes. M. J. Wild supplied the carriages. Numerous congratulatory telegrams were received during the day.

The Presents included: — Bridegroom to bride, beautiful New Zealand greenstone and gold pendant; Bride to bridegroom, gold sleeve links; Mother of bride, table linen; Mother of bridegroom, set of carvers and morocco case; Mr. C. Graham, cheque; Mr. W. Graham (Lismore), silver sugar scuttle and serviette rings; Mr. C. Annison (step-father of the bride), cheque; Miss Lockett, silver egg cruet; Mrs. L. WILLIAMS - STOREY

A fashionable and fully choral wedding took place at St. John's Church yesterday afternoon, when Miss Eveline Blanche Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Williams, well-known and highly respected residents of Wagga, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Samuel Horace Storey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Storey, of Old Junee.

The bride's father has for so long been a member of the choir of St. John's Church, and the bride herself has been so intimately associated with the choir that it was decided to celebrate the wedding with the fully choral service of the Church of England. The sacred edifice had been beautifully and tastefully decorated by the members of the choir, assisted by lady friends, and the work of decoration was skilfully supervised by Mrs. Best. The decorations had an exceedingly pretty effect. In each aisle was an arch of white flowers and ferns and at the altar steps was a large arch of similar flowers, with a large floral bridal bell in the centre, under which the happy couple knelt. There was a very large congregation, the church being filled. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. C. Mosley, Rector of the parish, and Mr. Herbert Webb, choirmaster, and organist, presided at the organ, there being a full attendance of the choristers. The service was most effectively and impressively performed, and the choral portions were rendered very pleasingly. The marriage hymns "The Voice that breathe o'er Eden" and "O Father, all creating" were also sung.

The bride entered the church, leaning upon her father's arm, and was met at the door by the choir, who led her to the altar steps. She looked charming in a beautiful wedding gown of white glace silk, trimmed with chiffon and silk lace. She wore the veil and wreath of orange blossoms worn by her mother at her wedding, and carried a pretty bouquet of white flowers, while she also wore a handsome gold chain and pendant set with pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Q. Tamblyn (cousin of the bride), and Miss Gertie Williamson, and they wore handsome costumes of blue crepe line voile, trimmed with kilting's of blue glace silk, with Paris insertion and lace, the hats being of blue crinoline straw, trimmed with blue glace silk and red berries. They wore gold brooches set with pearls, the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Ashley Storey, of Sydney, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

At the conclusion of the service the organist played Hill's march, while the newly married pair and their relatives were in the Vestry signing the register and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the contracting parties passed down the aisle to the door, where they received the cordial congratulations and good wishes of their numerous friends, and as they entered their carriage were honoured with a shower of rice and confetti.

Subsequent to the ceremony the wedding breakfast was held at the Criterion Hotel, where an excellent re-past was provided. The bride and bridegroom were seated at the head of the table, in front of them being an artistically decorated and large wedding cake. To their right and left were seated the bridesmaids, the best man, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Williams (parents of the bride). Mr. Storey (father of the bridegroom), the Rev. A. C. and Mrs. Mosley, Mr. J. H. Seymour (uncle of the bride), and Mr. Leslie B. Williams (brother of the bride). Amongst the invited guests were the following: —Dr. and Mrs. Henry Stoker, Dr. and Mrs. Moncrieff, Miss M. Hawkes, Miss McGrath, Mr. McKern, Mrs. McKern, Mrs. Best, Mr. E. Scheultz, the Misses Shaw, the Misses Jones, Miss Pownall, Mr. C. Hardy, jun., Mr. and Mrs. Booty, Mr. Jack, Mrs. W. Shaw, senr., Mr. W. B. Morison, Miss Mosley, Mr. Harry Commins, Mr. and Mrs. Alleyne Farr, Mr. and Mrs. R. Jackson, Mr. H. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Mitchelmore, Mrs. and Miss Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Williamson. Mr. Percy Seymour, Mr. Boylson, Miss Bellair, Miss Liley, Mr. Grimm, Miss E. Williams, Mr. T. H. Storey, the Misses Meurant, Miss Hunter, Mr. G. W. Bellair, Mr. F. E. Medd, Misses Hardy, Mrs. W. Shaw, jun., Mr. and Miss Sullivan.

As the marriage party entered the room, the "Wedding March" was played on the piano by Mr. Percival Goffin, musical director of "The Broken Melody" Company. A list of toasts was honored.

The Rev. A. C. Mosley proposed "The Bride and Bridegroom." He said that he always looked upon it as a part of his duty to propose this toast at wedding breakfasts when he had officiated at the ceremony. Often, he considered that duty also a privilege. But on this occasion the duty was both a privilege and a pleasure. Having known the bride and bridegroom for so long a time, and believing them to be well suited to each other, he felt greater pleasure than usual in proposing their health. He was sure those present would join with him in the very heartiest manner in re-echoing the desire that Mr. and Mrs. Storey should have a very long and very happy life. In this instance the church had ratified a union of hearts. He felt that this was one of those unions which would be of an ideal character, and he was sure the bridegroom would make the future home of their dear friend the bride a happy one, as her old home had been. They all wished them a happy union from the depth of their hearts. (Applause.)

The bridegroom briefly responded, thanking the company for their kindness and good wishes for his wife, which she and he greatly appreciated.

The bridegroom then proposed "The Bridesmaids," and Mr. A. Storey (the best man) responded on their behalf.

Mr. W. B. Morison proposed the health of "The Bride's Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Williams." He said that he had been associated with Mr. Williams for 35 years, both as a friend and as a fellow-chorister at St. John's. Mr. Williams got married first, and he (Mr. Morison) followed suit. Mr. Williams's children entered the choir, and of course his (Mr. Morison's) had to do so also. Now Mr. Williams had set him another example by one of his children getting married, but he felt a difficulty in following him, for both his (Mr. Morison's) children were boys; and they could not always get the boys to marry, though girls seemed to like it. (Laughter.) He paid a tribute of esteem to his old friends, the bride's honoured father and mother, and included in the toast her brother, Mr. Leslie Williams.

The toast was cordially drunk with musical honours, the company singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows."

Mr. H. J. Williams, who was cordially greeted on rising to respond, expressed his heartfelt thanks for the good things said about his daughter, his wife, and himself, and thanked the guests for their attendance to honour the occasion.

Mr. J. H. Seymour proposed the health of "The Father and Mother of the Bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Storey." He said they could look upon Mr. Storey as one of the pioneers who had been connected with the Riverina district for 45 years, as one who had worthily fought the battles of life in the secluded bush, and as one who by his own efforts had become a successful man. The family life of Mr. and Mrs. Storey reflected the greatest credit upon them, and their children were worthy of their parents.

Mr. S. Storey thanked those present for their kindly sympathy with the young people who had just entered married life. His own home life had been very happy, and he was sure that influence would have its effect upon his son's home life.

Mr. J. T. Williamson proposed "The Rector, the Rev. A. C. Mosley," stating that that gentleman during his residence in Wagga had worked arduously for people of the town.

The Rev. Mr. Mosley briefly replied. Mr. J. H. Seymour proposed the health of "The Choirmaster, the Choir and the Ladies who decorated the Church," and thanked them for their kind work of love on behalf of his niece.

Mr. H. Webb responded.

The company then proceeded to inspect the wedding presents, which were very numerous and costly. Many letters and telegrams of congratulations were received by the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Storey left for Sydney by the mail train yesterday afternoon. Part of the honeymoon will be spent in the metropolis and the Maitland district, after which they will proceed to Lismore, where their future home will be, and where the bridegroom is a member of the staff of the Bank of New South Wales.

The bride's going away dress was a handsome costume of grey basket canvas voile, trimmed with tomato velvet, and hat to match. A large number of friends proceeded to the railway station, and gave the happy couple a cordial send-off, amid showers of confetti and hearty good wishes.

OGILVIE – FIDDES

The marriage took place yesterday of Mr. Herbert Geo. Ogilvie , youngest son of the late Mr. J. G. Ogilvie and Mrs. Ogilvie, of Wagga, and Miss Ada Annie Fiddes , second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fiddes, of Wagga.

The ceremony took place at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and the service was a choral one, the Rev. Charles Bell being the officiating minister, and the church, which was filled with the numerous relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom, was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns, and the bride and bridegroom stood under a floral arch, in the centre of which a floral wedding bell was suspended. As the bride entered the church the choir sang "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden," and the musical arrangements also included the singing of the hymn, "O God of Bethel", while the parties were signing the register, and when the happy couple left the church, Miss Allen, the organist, played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March".

The bride's dress was of embossed chiffon over surah, with a handsome court train trimmed with orange blossoms and chiffon, the bodice was prettily trimmed with silk applique. She wore the customary orange blossoms and veil, and carried a shower bouquet of snow drops, and wore a pearl necklet, and diamond and ruby ring, the gifts of the bridegroom. The chief bridesmaid, Miss Fiddes, cousin of the bride, wore a dress of pale blue voile, trimmed with white applique, and white hat with chiffon trimmings, and white ostrich feather. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, and wore a dagger brooch of pearls and rubies, the gift of the bridegroom. The bride was also attended by her two little cousins, Miss Smyth and Miss James, who were daintily dressed in white silk, trimmed with chiffon, and pretty white picture hats. They carried white shower bouquets and wore gold brooches, the gifts of the bridegroom. The bride's mother wore black merv silk, relieved with white, and a handsome bonnet with buttercup trimmings. The bridegroom's mother wore black silk. Mr. J. Cunningham was best man, and Mr. Don. Fiddes acted as groomsman.

After the ceremony, the breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's parents, the tables being beautifully laid out and decorated with flowers and palms, and the repast was served in Mrs. Roulston's best style. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The toast of "The Bride and Bridegroom" was felicitously proposed by Mr. J. Cunningham, and the bridegroom, having responded, proposed "The Bridesmaids," to which Mr. D. Fiddes and Mr. J. Cunningham replied. The Rev. Charles Bell proposed "The Bride's Parents," and Mr. Fiddes responded. Mr. V. Smyth proposed "The Bridegroom's Mother," and Mr. E. Henningham responded.

The happy couple left for Sydney by the mail train, being accompanied to the station by a large number of friends, who distributed showers of confetti as the train left. A very large number of telegrams of congratulation were received by Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvie.

GREER – COLLINS

A most artistic and pretty function took place at St. John's Church yesterday afternoon, when the Ven. Archdeacon Wentworth-Shields for the first time performed in Wagga the ceremony of marriage. Appropriately the union thus celebrated was that of two members of St. John's choir, who for some years past have tendered good service in the choral ritual of the church.

The contracting parties were Mr. James Greer, son of Mr. W. J. Greer, of Melbourne, and also secretary of the Wagga Football Association, and Miss Stella Lilian Collins, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Collins. The event occasioned much more than the usual interest, and there was a large congregation in the church, which was most beautifully decorated. The chief floral adornments were wattle blossom and accompanying spring blooms, the emblems thus indicated being, it is hoped, a prophecy of welfare for the young people thus honoured. The service was a fully choral one. The Archdeacon performed the ceremony with all the impressiveness of the Anglican liturgy, and as the young couple knelt beneath the floral wedding bell all spoke well for the future. Mr. H. Webb pre-sided at the organ and played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the couple left the church. The choir contributed the marriage hymns, "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden" and "O Father, All Creating".

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beautiful white silk dress, with lovely lace drapings and chiffon, with the customary veil and orange blossoms, and looked extremely pretty, carrying a beautiful shower wreath and gold watch and chain, the gifts of the bridegroom. The chief bridesmaid was Miss. M. M. Clayton (Albury), who was attired in a cream voile dress, with most becoming hat, looking charming, and carrying a crook of daffodils and a brooch of gold, the gifts of the bridegroom. The other three bridesmaids were Miss Ivy Collins (Albury), Miss Ethel Spicer and Miss Rosalind Spicer (Geelong, Vic.), all cousins, who were daintily attired in white silk, with pretty hats, and carrying crooks of flowers, and gold lucky-pins, the gifts of the bride-groom. Mr. S. Greer, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony the bride's father and mother entertained a large company at their residence, "Locksley," Peter-street, where the wedding break-fast was served. The repast was a most delightful one and reflected the greatest credit upon Mrs. McLoughlin and those others responsible. A large gathering sat down to the breakfast, including the Ven. Archdeacon Wentworth-Shields and Mrs. Wentworth-Shields, Mrs. Clayton (the grand-mother of the bride), of Wallan, Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayes, and many other relations and friends of the bride and bridegroom. After the wedding cake had been cut, the Ven. Archdeacon Wentworth-Shields proposed the health of the "Bride and Bridegroom," in an eloquent address, and Mr. Greer responded. The toast of "The Bride's parents" was pro-posed by Mr. Greer (Melbourne), and Mr. Collins effectively responded. Alderman Hayes proposed "The Brides-maids," and the health of " Arch-deacon Wentworth Shields" was neatly given by Mr. W. B. Morison.

The bride and bridegroom left by the train, intending to spend their honeymoon in Melbourne. The bride's going away dress was of grey embossed voile, with lovely shell hat, to match, trimmed with tangerine roses. A photo. of the bridal group was taken by Mr. E. Henningham.

The presents were very numerous and costly, amongst them being the following:—Bridegroom to bride, gold watch and chain; bride to bride-groom, travelling rug; bridegroom to bridesmaids, gold brooches; mother of bride, house linen; father of bride, cheque; Mrs. Clayton, grandmother of bride (Wallan, Vic.), complete bed-room linen; Mr. W. J. Greer, father of bridegroom (Melbourne), cheque; Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Greer (Melbourne), dinner service and handsome lamp; Mr. Charles Greer (Ireland), cheque; Mr. S. Greer (Melbourne), silver cake dish; E. E. Collins and Co., cheque; Mrs. H. E. Brennan, case of dessert knives and forks; Mr. and Mrs. McRae Stewart (Horsham, Vic.), case of silver carvers; Mrs. A. Spicer (Geelong, Vic.), silver pickle cruet; employees of E. E. Collins and Co., silver mounted oak biscuit barrel; Mrs. D. Logan (Geelong, Vic.), table linen; Mr. and Mrs. H. Collins (Albury), silver fish

knife and forks; Mr. A. M. Zwar (Beechworth, Vic.), cheque; Mrs. Hide (Albury), silver bread fork; Mrs. R. GILLETT - POWNALL

At St. John's Church on Thursday afternoon there was a large congregation to witness the solemnization of matrimony between the Rev. Clement Cockerton Gillett , B.A., Curate of St. John's parish, and Miss Sophy Swayne Pownall , youngest daughter of the late Dean Pownall and of Mrs. Pownall, of Wagga.

A -large number of those present were residents of North Wagga, where the bridegroom has largely ministered during the period he has been stationed in this parish. The service was fully choral, and the church had been tastefully decorated for the occasion by lady friends of the parties. The hymn, 'The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden', and another wedding hymn were sung, and Mendelsohn's 'Wedding March 'was played. by the organist (Mr. H. Webb) as the happy couple left the church.

The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Hardy, junr., wore, a white costume and white hat, and wore a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The bridesmaid was Miss May Taylor, and Mr. Leslie Williams was best man.

Subsequent to the ceremony a reception was held at 'Kallima', which was attended by the immediate relatives and friends of the parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillett left by the mail train from Bomen railway station for Goulburn en-route to Bombala, where Mr. Gillett will be stationed for some time to come.

MCGRATH – MACWILLIAM

The marriage took place yesterday of Miss Winifred Jane Elizabeth McGrath, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs J. J. McGrath, of "Wattle Vale" to Mr. Samuel Stuart Macwilliam, of H.M. Customs, Sydney, fourth son of Mr. John Stuart Macwilliam, marine surveyor, of Dublin, Ireland.

The ceremony was held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the officiating minister being the IRev. Charles Bell. The Church was very tastefully and artistically decorated by Mrs. Bell, Miss Rudd and Miss Daley, the flowers for the decorations (and also for the wedding breakfast table) being lent by Mrs. McGrath's sister, Mrs. John Clout, of Barber's Creek. A feature of the decorations was a handsome wedding bell.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a handsome costume of crepe-de-chine over glace, with the customary wreath and veil, and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white flowers, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid was Miss Amy McGrath, sister of the bride, who wore white silk muslin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and insertion, with a picture hat. She also carried a bouquet of pink carnations and other delicate flowers and wore a gold chain and locket set with pearls, the gifts of the bridegroom. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a handsome dressing-case and silver manicure set. The best man was Mr. Fred. Bennett.

Mrs. McGrath wore a handsome costume of heliotrope, trimmed with black lace and chiffon, with black picture hat and parachute to match. The service was choral, the choir singing the hymns, 'The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden', and 'O, God of Bethel', and the organist (Miss Daley) -played Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March' as the happy couple left the church. There was a large congregation.

Subsequently the wedding breakfast was held at 'Wattle Vale', where a few friends of the family were entertained. On the previous Wednesday Mrs. McGrath held a reception of married ladies and friends of the bride, while on the same evening a party of young people were entertained. The wedding had been a quiet one owing to a recent death in the family, and the guests, therefore, only included a few old friends of the bride's father and mother. Among those present, were the Rev. Charles and Mrs. Bell. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Mitchelmore, Dr. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. G. Rudd, Miss Rudd, Mr. H. O. Heath, Mr. W. J. Blake, and Mr. Fred. Bennett. The health of 'The Bride and Bridegroom' was proposed by the Rev. Charles Bell, and duly honoured, the bridegroom responding. Other toasts followed.

The wedding cake, which was beautifully decorated, was made by Mrs. Cameron, of Wagga. -Mrs. Rudd wore pink and white floral muslin, and picture hat. Mrs. Mitchelmore's costume was of champagne coloured voile, trimmed with net and pink silk, and picture hat. Mrs. Bell wore black silk, with Maltese lace and white net, with a handsome bonnet, and Miss Rudd's dress was of white silk, and white hat with pink roses. Mrs. G. Rudd, 'Ruddville' Trail Street, gave Miss McGrath an afternoon on January 25.

Mr. and Mrs. MacWilliam left Bomen by the mail train for Goulburn en-route to Sydney. The honeymoon will be spent at Manly. The bride's going away dress was of navy-blue voile over glace, with a picture hat to match. The presents, which were of a costly character, numbered more than 100, and included several cheques.

PRENDERGAST – MCDONOUGH

A large gathering of friends assembled in St. Michaels Church, yesterday to witness the marriage of Mr. Thomas Prendergast , of Wrightville, near Cobar, to Miss Nellie McDonough , eldest daughter of Mrs. M. McDouough, of Wagga.

The marriage ceremony was celebrated by the Very Rev Father Slattery, V.G., and took place in front of the High Altar, which together with the Sanctuary was beautifully draped for the occasion by the young la- dies of the Altar Society, the pre-dominating colours were blue and white, the colours of the Children of Mary, of which Society the bride was an officer for some time. A special feature of the decorations was an alter erected within the Sanctuary, also in commemoration of the brides association with the Children of Mary.

The bride who was given away by her brother, Mr. Wm. McDonough, was prettily attired in navy cloth, trimmed with white kid, and wore a most becoming hat of blue, trimmed with shaded blue ribbon. She also carried a bouquet of choice flowers. Mr. Martin, of Sydney, was groomsman. The bridesmaids were the two sisters of the bride, Miss Maud McDonough, who wore pale blue voile, and biscuit coloured straw hat, trimmed with pale blue silk; and Miss McDonough, who was attired in an ivory silk dress and white felt hat.

After the ceremony, the bridal party, comprising only a few personal friends and the members of the families adjourned to the Advance Australia Hotel, the residence of the bride's mother. Father Slattery presided. The usual toasts were honoured and the wedding presents admired.

Mr. and Mrs. Prendergast left for Sydney by the afternoon's mail for a short honeymoon, prior to settling in their home at Wrightville.

In connection with the wedding a presentation took place at Mount Erin on Sunday afternoon last, when the bride elect was presented by the members of the Children of Mary Society with a beautiful statue representing "Our Lady". Father Slattery made the presentation and spoke in most complimentary terms of the young lady who was leaving them after an association extending almost since her childhood. After the presentation, the bride elect received the congratulations of her many friends at Mount Erin. Father Slattery's' present to the bride made on the same occasion was a most handsome pearl-covered prayer book.

LEAVER – WISE

At St. Michael's Church yesterday afternoon Mr. David Wise, of Uranquinty, and Miss Sarah Leaver, of Newtown, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Father Fleming.

Mr. Robert Graham acted as best man, and the bride, who was handsomely attired in a white silk dress, was given away by her brother, Mr. H. Leaver. Miss B. Leaver and Miss Edith Leaver, sisters of the bride, were the bridesmaids, and they were prettily attired in heliotrope and cream silk respectively.

The wedding breakfast, at which a large number of guests assembled, was partaken of at the residence of the bride's mother. The Rev. Father Fleming proposed the toast of 'The Bride and Bridegroom', and it was drunk with enthusiasm, Mr. Wise responding. Mr. Halliday proposed 'The Bridesmaids', which was responded to, on behalf of the young ladies, by Mr. H. Leaver.

The catering was successfully carried out by Mrs. McLaughlin, and a 'three decker' wedding cake, artistically arranged, was made by Mr. H. Leaver.

The happy couple left by the mail train yesterday evening for Sydney, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride being attired in a tailormade grey tweed dress and red felt hat.

CHENEY – SHUMARK (SHOEMARK)

At the Ladysmith Church on Wednesday, August 15, Benjamin Shumark , youngest son of the late Mr, John Shumark, of Cambden, was married to Miss. Selina Cheney , third daughter of Mr. Robert Cheney, of Humula.

The little church was tastefully decorated for the occasion by Mrs. M. Flanagan and the Misses Flanagan. The Rev. J. Beale, of Wagga, officiated at the ceremony, and the bridesmaids were Misses Maud und Ruby Chapman and Miss Jenny and Gracie Shumark, all nieces of the bridegroom. Mr. George Chapman was best man.

The bride looked charming in a well-fitting costume of white silk, trimmed with Paris lace. The bridesmaids wove also prettily dressed, Miss Ruby Chapman's costume being of champagne voile, white chiffon hat. Miss Maud Chapman, blue, with blue hat to match, the Misses Shumark were in cream, white felt hats trimmed with lilies of file valley. Each of the bridesmaid carried a basket filled with violets and snowflakes.

The wedding breakfast was partaken of at 'The Sugar-loaf', the residence of Mr. Joseph Chapman, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. A sumptuous spread way provided, and about 100 guests were entertained. The usual toasts were proposed and honored, the first meal passing of as happily as could have been wished for.

Subsequently several tennis matches were played on the 'Sugar-loaf' courts. In the evening a social and dance was held, at which there was another large assemblage of friends, and dancing, was kept up with much spirit till after daylight next morning. The presents to the bride wert» numerous and useful, amongst the latter being a number of cheques. Mr. and Mrs. Shumark will in future reside at their new home, 'Spion Kop', Ladysmith.

HELY - ROBINSON

The members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Holy, of Millview, Tarcutta-street, Wagga, on Tuesday last celebrated the wedding of a daughter- of the household and the golden wedding of the parents.

The marriage ceremony took place at St. John's Church, Wagga, at 8.30 p.m., by Rev. R. M. Turnbull, Rector, the contracting parties being Miss Martha Ada Hely (fourth daughter) and Mr. Thomas Robinson, of Perth, W.A., third son of Mr. Thomas Robinson, of Wagga.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly attired in white Parisienne lawn, with Valenciennes lace and insertion, and white chiffon toque, whilst she also wore a diamond and sapphire brooch and carried an ivory prayer book, the gifts of the bridegroom. She was attended by her sister, Miss B. Hely, who was attired in pale grey voile, cream lace and mauve trimmings and white hat, wearing also a ruby and diamond brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. E. Wunsch was best man.

The happy couple were the recipients of numerous presents, including several cheques, from members of the family; house linen, from Mrs. Hely; and the bride's present to the bridegroom was a chastely engraved shaving mug and brush. By the express next morning Mr. and Mrs. Robinson started out for their new home in Perth, the bride's travelling dress being of green Palmas cloth, with pink hat.

Immediately after the church ceremony, the bride and bridegroom joined in the celebration of their parents' jubilee. The register of North Wagga Church shows that on July 21st, 1856, John Thomas Hely was married to Elizabeth Hannah Smart, both being Sydney natives. There are nine surviving children of the marriage, and their grandchildren number 26. Mr. Hely has attained his 72nd birthday, and Mrs. Hely her 68th. They have spent nearly the whole of their married life in Wagga, and when in his prime Mr. Hely was a noted horseman.

The immediate members of the Holy family present at the celebration were: — Mrs. McKay (Warren), Mrs. Krust, Mrs. R. Hill, Mrs. Robinson, and Miss Hely, Sergeant Hely (Germanton) and Mr. Hely (Wellington). The most interesting feature of the happy proceedings was the hanging of a small silk bag over the heads of both parents, the bag containing many sovereigns. During the evening Mr. Matthew Arnold presented the parents with a silver and oak biscuit barrel from the Boys at Millview.' With music, song and story, a real jubilation was indulged in until the wee small hours, and Mr. and Mrs. Hely were overjoyed with the congratulations which poured in upon them from all sides.

HEADLEY - WISEMAN

When the sun was shining forth in all its acceptable Spring-time glow, shortly before two o'clock— 2 o'clock was the appointed hour for the ceremony — Miss Dora Louise Headley , the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Headley, of "Hartsford," Johnstone street, Wagga, attended at St. John's Church of England, to be joined in holy wedlock to Mr. Elliot George Wiseman , second son of Mr. W. G. Wiseman, of "Hillside," Wollongong. When the arrival of the bride was announced, a crowd of interested folks collected outside the Church porch and formed an escort for the bride who was instantly the synosure for all eyes as she softly walked along the carpeted path from the gates to the Church porch.

On the top of the flight of steps in the Church vestibule, she was met by her chief bridesmaid, Miss Gertrude Wiseman, sister of the bridegroom, and two lovely little brides-maids, Miss Marjorie Headley, the bride's sister, and Miss Moira Ferris. Meanwhile the Church organist, Mr. Herbert Webb, had been playing a tasteful improvisation of the Bells and directly the bridal procession had been formed, the choir, including the lady members in their purple robes and trenchers, commenced the appropriate hymn "How welcome was the call."

The bride carried herself extremely well as she walked up the north aisle leaning upon the arm of her father, her bridesmaids following immediately after. The bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Percy W. Orton, of Strathfield. Sydney had already taken their places near the Communion steps. Over the heads of the bridal pair was suspended a mammoth wedding bell, simply laden with bridal flowers. The altar was made beautiful with similar emblems, and at the place where the officiating clergyman stood was erected a high archway, tastefully adorned, and surmounted with a beautiful white cross, whilst the uniting couple knelt on white satin cushions.

On either side of the Church, the choir stalls were decorated by the formation of floral arches, displaying excellent taste in their adornment the panel of one arch being filled in with the initials "D. J." (Dora and Jack) in exquisite white flowers, whilst the other contained eight miniature wedding bells with a letter of the worlds "Good Luck" suspended from each. There were also two appropriately adorned arches in either aisle and palm leaves were placed along the side walls of the sacred edifice. Altogether, the decorations which were carried out by the bride's girlfriends, under the superintendence of the Rector, were of the loveliest description.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Montague Turnbull, Rector of St. John's parish. The bride was given away by her father. During the ceremony the choir sang the "Deus Miseratur." The Church was crowded with people, fully half the seating accommodation having been reserved for the large number of invited guests.

Miss Headley made a beautiful bride, and her attire was magnificent, consisting of a dress of ivory duchess satin, over glace silk handsomely trimmed with embossed chiffon, with court train, and an exquisite bertha of costly guipure lace with edgings of real valenciennes lace and a handsome wreath and veil. She also wore a beautiful diamond and turquoise ring, and carried a lovely bridal bouquet, the gifts of the bridegroom. Miss Wiseman, the chief bridesmaid, wore a lovely dress of crystal lawn over glace silk and carried a lovely bouquet of pink flowers, whilst her jewellery including a pearl and turquoise brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. The two children, Misses M. Headley and M. Ferris were greatly admired, and they seemed perfect in their lovely dresses of crystal lawn over Japanese, and handsomely trimmed with real valenciennes lace and insertion. They also wore dainty little caps and bamboo bangles, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried shepherd's crooks adorned with pink flowers and pink streamers. All the bouquets were the gifts of the bridegroom.

The service concluded the bride and bridegroom and the bridal party proceeded to the vestry for the purpose of signing the register. Whilst this necessary part of the function was being performed, Miss Mitchelmore, of Melbourne, treated the congregation to a delightful rendering of Florence Alyward's charming song "Beloved, it is Morn." When the bride and bridegroom came out of the vestry, the organist with full organ burst forth the strains of "The Wedding March," and the scene as the bridal party marched down the aisle, amidst the brilliancy of fashion as represented by the ladies, and amid the grandeur of the flowers, was one of striking beauty.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Headley held a reception in the Masonic Hall, when there were 160 guests. Mrs. Headley was greatly admired in a floral brown taffeta silk, trimmed with velvet in Greek key pattern, and blue and brown hat, whilst she also carried a bouquet of beautiful red flowers. Mrs. W. S. Eaton, grandmother of the bride attended in black silk over lemon glaze with a mauve bonnet and violet bouquet. Mrs. Mars (sister of the bridegroom) looked pretty in chiffon voile, with green hat adorned with autumn leaves and pink roses. Mrs. Turnbull wore cream with pale blue silk facings, and blue hat.

After light refreshments a flashlight photograph was taken by Mr. E. Henningham, who subsequently took a bridal group, and a family group. A pleasurable toast list was gone through. At the call of Mr. J. J. McGrath, J.P., who acted as Toastmaster, the Rev. R. M. Turnbull in a felicitous speech proposed the principal toast, "The Bride and Bridegroom," which was responded to by the bridegroom in a few appropriate words. Mr. G. R. Roxburgh proposed the toast of the bridesmaids in sentences which were highly complimentary to those who had already entered into the marriage state and Mr. Percy Orton, the best man, created spontaneous laughter by his reference to the chief bridesmaid as "a very old friend." Mr. G. Paterson Wilson, of The Springs, submitted the toast of the bride's parents, and alluded to the popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Headley not only amongst the townspeople, but to the utmost extent of the Wagga district. Mr. Headley had interested himself largely in public affairs, and whilst doing so had gained widespread public respect. Mr. Wilson also coupled with the toast the name of Mrs. Eaton, the bride's grandmother. In replying. Mr. Headley made one of his characteristic speeches, full of good humour, in which he made a strong appeal to the bachelors who had grouped themselves in a corner of the hall. Other toasts were honored and before the reception ended lusty cheers were given for the happy couple, and the other chief actors in the day's brilliant spectacle.

There was a rush to the station at five o'clock to see Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wiseman off by the mail train to Sydney, en route for Brisbane, where the honeymoon will be spent. A large proportion of the guests were on the platform and cheered enthusiastically as the train drew out of the station. None the less enthusiastic was the send-off of the railway men under Station-master Darby. The bride's travelling attire consisted of a navy blue Eton coat and skirt, and a hat of white and blue straw with blue chiffon and pink roses.

MONKS – TILDEN

A wedding was celebrated at St. Michael's Church, Wagga, on Wednesday morning, 17th instant, when Lily Elenea Leah , second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Monks, of O'Brien's Creek, was married to Francis John , youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tilden, of Uranquinty, the Rev. Father Fleming officiating.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in a white Japanese silk, with transparent yoke, of Valenciennes insertion, threaded with white satin bebe ribbon, edged with white guipure applique; skirt beautifully inset with Valenciennes insertion, threaded with white satin bebe ribbon. She wore the customary wreath and veil a gold cross, the gift of the bridegroom, carried a shower bouquet of white lilies, cosmos, and maiden hair ferns, and was attended by two bridesmaids (sisters of the bride) Misses Stella and Maud Monks. The bridesmaids wore frocks of cream cloth, made with transparent yokes of cream lace and deep lace berthas, crinoline, trimmed with cream ribbon and red geraniums. They also wore gold charm pins, the gifts of the bridegroom, and carried bouquets of pink and white cosmos and ferns. The bride's dress was made by Miss T. Monks, of Camden, and reflected great credit on that young lady's taste. Mr Mat. Tilden (nephew of the bridegroom) attended as best man.

The ceremony being over, the wedding party repaired to O'Brien's Creek, the residence of the bride's parent, where the wedding breakfast was in waiting, and was laid out in a large hall, specially erected by Mr. Monks for the occasion, and a dance which followed. During the breakfast eulogistic speeches were made by Mr. R. M. Sheehan in proposing the health of the bride and bridegroom, and Mr. W. Booty, in proposing the health of the bride's parents. Both testified to the high esteem in which the bride and bride groom and the bride's family are held in the district. A social event of more than usual interest was the wedding of Miss Constance Beryl Copland, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Copland, of "Hillside," to Mr. Thomas Wilkinson Green, son of Mr. William Green of Canterbury (England), which took place at the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Copland and his family are known throughout Southern Riverina, and have long been intimately associated with the social, pastoral and commercial interests of the community in such a manner as to command the respect and esteem of all classes. Having a very extensive circle of friends, it was only to be anticipated that the nuptials of a member of the family would excite widespread interest.

The church was profusely decorated, the pews reserved for the wedding guests being done with white chrysanthemums, tied with white ribbon, the bridal couple standing under an arch from which was suspended a large wedding bell. The service was choral, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. C. Bell. After the signing of the register, the bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a handsome trained gown of chiffon satin, the skirt trimmed with chiffon ruchings, true lover's knots and beautiful Limerick lace, the bodice trimmed with the same lace and finished with orange blossom, veil of embroidered tulle with a coronet of orange blossom. She carried a shower bouquet and wore a diamond and sapphire bangle (gifts from the bridegroom), pearl pendant and chain (the gift of Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, Kyamba), and jewelled combs (the gift of the bride's brother, Mr. E. Copland).

She was attended by three bridesmaids, the principal being Miss Violet Copland, who looked charming in a gown of pale blue crepe de chene over silk, trimmed with silk yolk and bolero of Limerick lace, hat of white panne velvet, with shaded marabout feathers in tones of brown and gold; her gifts from the bridegroom were a turquoise and pearl heart pendant and bouquet of red roses. The two little bridesmaids, Miss Jennie and Beth Caldwell wore dainty frocks of cream radium silk much inset with lace, Dutch bonnets, with pale blue shoes, sashes and ribbons; their pearl and turquoise pendants were the bridegroom's gifts, and they carried silver wands with crimson roses and fern, and ribbon streamers. The bridegroom was attended by Dr. Herbert Kendall (Sydney) as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at 'Hillside'. Mrs. Copland received the guests at the entrance of the drawing room (wearing a beautifully made gown of grey chiffon silk, the bodice trimmed with Paris lace and embroidered, net toque of helio trope panne velvet and feathers). She carried a bouquet of crimson roses and maiden hair fern, the bride and bridegroom standing next to her to receive the congratulations of their friends.

The drawing-room and dining-room were most artistically decorated with peach blossom, white flowers and fern, the tables on which the bride cake stood being particularly noticeable with its choice white flowers and tulle in true lover's knots. After light refreshments had been partaken of, the health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Bell, and drunk in bumpers of champagne, with musical honours. It was responded to by the bridegroom (Mr. Green). The health of the bridesmaids was proposed by Mr. Jeremy, and responded to in a humorous speech by Dr. Kendall. The health of the bride's parents was proposed by Dr. Burgess, and responded to by Mr. Copland.

Mrs. Frank Copland wore a gown of wine coloured crepe-de-chene, the bodice trimmed with velvet, Paris lace, and floral silk hat in the same tone with velvet and feathers. Mrs. Lush (Melbourne). golden brown check silk, trimmed with velvet in a darker shade, toque of heliotrope velvet with feathers. Miss Flo. Lucas (Melbourne), pretty cream costume finished with lace, embroidered net and gold braid, hat of soft blue felt trimmed with velvet and shaded brown dahlias. Miss Killick (Sydney), purple cloth, with a vest of lace and floral silk, becoming hat with feathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Green left by the afternoon mail train, as the honeymoon is to be spent in Sydney and Medlow. The bride travelled in a tailor-made navy faced cloth coat and skirt, with collar and reverse of embroidered silk, hat of navy chip straw with foliage and pink wing. As the train drew out of the station three hearty cheers were given by the crowd.

The wedding guests were entertained at 'Hillside' at a most enjoyable euchre party in the evening, when Mrs. H. T. Davidson won the ladies' prize, and Dr. Kendall the gentlemen's.

BARNES – MANGELSDORF

Mr. Fritz H. A. Magelsdorf was married to Miss Isabella M (Millie) Barnes , of Berry Jerry, at 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. Father Griffin, at the residence j of the bride. There were a very large number of guests invited, and although the day was most uninviting, about 200 turned up. A large marquee was erected and everything went along as smooth as a marriage bell — not a hitch of any kind.

The bride looked charming as she walked into the room on her father's arm, and so did the bridesmaids, who were escorted by Mr. Fred Mangelsdorf. The ceremony did not take long, and when over they all adjourned to the marquee where a splendid and sumptuous breakfast was waiting. The table was most artistically decorated and simply groaned under the weight of eatables, which were a distinct credit to all those concerned in the preparation. The usual toasts were made and responded to. Afterwards a dance began which lasted, fast and furious, until 6 o'clock in the morning.

The. happy pair left by the mail train for Sydney on Thursday evening, and will be absent about a week or 10 days.

The list of wedding presents was so large that space will not allow of their being particularised. ?

McGILL – GATEHOUSE

A wedding that attracted a very large amount of local interest was celebrated in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church yesterday afternoon. The contracting parties were George A. Gatehouse , second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gatehouse, of "Snow Glen," Adaminaby-road, near Cooma, and Marion E. (Nellie) McGill , youngest daughter of the late Mr. James McGill, of Tupra Station, Oxley, and Mrs. James Hill, of "Felton," Wagga. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a crowded church of spectators by the Rev. Monsignor Buckley.

The bride was given away by her stepfather, Mr. James Hill, and was very handsomely gowned in white chiffon Taffetta, richly trimmed with fancy nett insertion, and a court train. She wore the customary wreath of orange blossoms and veil and carried a magnificent shower bouquet. She also wore a pretty gold brooch, set with rubies and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Another pretty addition to the bride's attire was a string of chiffon bells and lillies of the valley on her arms, and two true lover's knots, linked with prettily made horseshoes. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Gatehouse, sister of the bridegroom, was stylishly and becomingly dressed in soft white silk, trimmed with Valenciennes lace. She wore a white hat trimmed with roses, and carried a shower bouquet, the gift of the bridegroom. She also wore a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. The trainbearer was little Miss Daisy Hill, stepsister of the bride, and she wore a white silk dress, trimmed with real lace and girdled with a pale blue silk sash.

The mother of the bride wore a handsome dress of grey silk, prettily touched with a tinge of cherry colour. She wore a bonnet to match. A very handsome gold watch and chain, the gift of the bride, was worn by the bridegroom. Mr. Jack McGill (brother of the bride) acted as groomsman. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss O'Connor as the bridal party entered the church.

After the wedding the bridal group were photographed, and then sat down, in the company of about 50 guests, to a breakfast spread at the residence of the bride's parents in Gurwood-street. The Rev. Monsignor Buckley presided and proposed the toast of "The Bride and Bridegroom," which was responded to by the latter. Other toasts honored were "The Bridesmaids", "The Officiating Clergyman," and "The Parents of the Bride and Bridegroom". The breakfast table was a study in pink and white colouring decorations, carried out artistically by Mrs. Jack McGill. A large bell was suspended over the wedding cake in the centre of the table and looked very pretty.

The happy couple left by the afternoon mail train for Sydney. The bride's travelling dress was a Shantung silk, trimmed with pale blue glase silk. She wore a lace hat, trimmed with pale blue. A large crowd were present on the railway station, and as the train steamed out to the accompaniment of the explosion of fox signals, the newly married pair were smothered in showers of confetti.

BROWNING – PARSONAGE

A quiet and pretty wedding was celebrated last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dobney, Fitzmaurice Street, uncle and aunt of the bride. The contracting parties were Captain Arthur William Parsonage and Miss Nea Browning Cross, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. A. Carver.

The bride was well-known in Wagga. where she has resided since her childhood. She was for some time a teacher at the Wagga District School and later on at Munyabla. The bridegroom is also well and favourably known, for the past three years he has held a position as assistant teacher at the District School. He is also officer in charge of the local Junior Cadets, by all of whom he is beloved. Both are extremely popular and are worthy young people. The esteem in which they were held was given tangible expression to in a large number of handsome presents.

The happy couple left by last night's express for Sydney, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride's going-away dress was a stylish navy blue coat and skirt.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S POPULARITY – A number at the bridegroom's intimate friends met at the Sportsman's Arms Hotel on Thursday evening, and made him a presentation of a neat and pretty silver entree dish, on which was inscribed the words, 'Presented to A. W. Parsonage by his Wagga pals, on the eve of his marriage 19/12/1907'. Mr. E. H. Hedditch presided and proposed the guest's health in glowing terms, referring to him as 'one of the whitest', and hoping that now, although he was joining the serious brigade, Captain Parsonage would not forget the happy times he had spent with the 'boys' in Wagga. Messrs. F. Rowan, A. M. Shaw, R. Anderson, and W. T. Archer also spoke in support, and the toast was drunk with musical honours. Captain Parsonage suitably and feelingly responded, after which several other toasts were honoured before the gathering dispersed.

PRESENTATION BY TEACHERS – At the conclusion of the prize distribution at the Wagga District School on Friday morning, the whole of the teaching staff gathered in the Senior Inspectors room, where the head teacher (Mr. W. J. Garland) presented Captain Parsonage, on behalf of the teaching staff, with a handsome silver-mounted salad bowl, a silver bread fork and pair of solid silver knife rests. Mr. Garland wished Captain Parsonage and his bride-elect life-long happiness and prosperity. In accepting the gift, the recipient said that he but echoed the sentiments of all the teachers when he said that Mr. Garland was a first-class 'boss', and it was a pleasure to work under him. He thanked them all sincerely, both for himself and for his bride-elect.

SHEPPARD – RAELEIGH

A fashionable gathering assembled at St. John's Church, Wagga, on Saturday last to witness the marriage of Lorraine Sheppard, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sheppard, 'Cora Lynn', Wagga, and Alfred Herbert Raeleigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Raeleigh, "Tandara" Bendigo. The popularity of the bride and bridegroom was made apparent by the large number of people (apart from the wedding guests) who attended to witness the ceremony. The fully choral service was conducted by the Rev. G. A. Garver, and during the signing of the register Miss Copland sang 'God Be With You' (Elmblad). The church was decorated with white flowers and ferns, noticeable amongst the decorations being a wedding bell under which the bridal pair stood and a heart of white flowers with the initials of both bride and bridegroom in violets. These decorations had been carried out by the members of St. John's choir and Sunday School (both of which the bride had been a member of) and many friends of the bride.

The bride was conducted to the altar by her father, who subsequently gave her away. She wore a gown of white satin de chene; the skirt falling in graceful lines, was draped with silk lace; the bodice being delicately ornamented with silver tissue, gave a touch of brightness to the toilet; the long train was softened with chiffon and a large true lover's knot in silver; the tulle veil covering a wreath of orange blossoms was the one worn by her mother on the occasion of her marriage, that day 25 years ago. It was fastened with a diamond brooch, which, with the shower bouquet, were the gifts of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids, Misses Forbie Sullivan, Violet Copland, Gwladys Raleigh (niece of the bridegroom), Marion Seaborn (cousin of the bride), wore gowns of deep and pale violet, the first two wearing marquiselle over silk and chiffon trimmed with lace and finished with silver tassels, the second crepe de chine over silk and trimmed with lace and velvet; the quartet wore tulle veils fastened with coronets of violet, and they carried silver-bound prayer books (the gift of the bride), from which were suspended posies of violets. The bridegroom presented to each a gold heart brooch, with the initials A. and L. in pearls. His gift to the best man (Mr. W. A. Clark, Sydney) was a silver shaving mug and brush in case.

The Masonic Hall was beautifully decorated with boughs of almond blossoms, white bouvardia and ferns by Mrs. David Copland (an old friend of the bride's family) and other friends and was the scene of a gay reception after the ceremony. The guests were received by the mother of the bride, wearing a handsome gown of mauve satin mousseline and a hat of mauve crinoline straw with tulle and roses. She wore an amethyst and pearl shamrock brooch (the gift of the bridegroom).

The Rev. G. A. Carver proposed the health of the bride and bridegroom, to which the latter responded in a happy speech. During the afternoon a most artistic souvenir of the wedding, designed and painted by Miss Copland, was autographed by the guests. While the bride changed her bridal robe for a navy cloth coat and skirt, and navy hat trimmed with a large white seagull, Miss Copland sang 'Mattenata' (Tosti). and Miss Seaborn recited 'Auld Lang Syne'. Violet was the predominating color in the table and hall decorations. The catering was carried out by Mr. Geo. Misson, of the Premier Cafe. Having received the hearty good wishes of their friends amidst cheers, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Raleigh left for Sydney and Hobart, en route for Melbourne. Many congratulatory telegrams were received from absent friends.

Amongst the presents received were — bride to bridegroom, signet ring; bridegroom to bride, diamond brooch; mother of bride, sapphire ring, silver bound marriage service and house linen; the Rev. SCOTT – FULLER

A novel event in the shape of an 'Army wedding' attracted a large gathering at the local Salvation Army barracks last evening.

The contracting parties were Mr. Albert Edward Fuller , bandmaster of the Army band, and Miss Etheldia Marion Gladstone Scott , also a member of the Army. Mr. Cecil Scott acted as best man, and Miss Mabel Scott performed the duties of bridesmaid.

The proceedings which were conducted by Adjutant McKay, the local officer in charge, were at first devoted to selections from the baud, conducted by the bridegroom, songs and choruses by various members of the company. Everything passed off in a spirited maimer. The members of the army were seated on the platform, and the bride and bridegroom with their attendants occupied the central position. They were seated behind a table which was decorated with plants and draped with white material. The gas lamp overhead was also decorated, and had a wreath attached.

The bride was attired in a neat uniform, und the only pretension to finery were n white sash around her shoulder and a white ribbon in her hair. The ceremony was gone through in the usual way. with the exception that each was requested to pledge himself and herself to continue labouring on behalf of the army. At its conclusion volleys of 'hallelujahs' and cheering were fired at the bride and bridegroom, and showers of rice. On behalf of the members of the army Mr. C. Carver presented the bride and bridegroom with a handsome eiderdown quilt, and this was the signal for more 'volleys.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller leave to-day for Melbourne, where the honeymoon will be spent.

PARSELLS – REBERGER

PARSELLS – MUNRO

An interesting double wedding, in which two sisters became brides, attracted considerable attention at St. Michael's yesterday afternoon, the Church being well filled by friends of the two couples, together with a large number of sympathetic spectators.

The contracting parties were Miss Mary Elizabeth Parsells , daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parsells, of Lake Albert, who was married to Mr. William G. Rayburgh , of Kitegora, and Miss Marcella E. A. Parsells , who was united to Mr. Hector Munro , of Currawarua.

The brides were dressed alike in white silk, with silk insertion, and wore the customary veils, with wreaths of orange blossoms. They carried bouquets presented by the respective bridegrooms. The first named bride was attended by Miss Sullivan, of Narrandera, as bridesmaid and Miss Norah Rayburgh acted in a similar capacity in the second case. Mr. F. Rayburgh acted as best man for his brother, and Mr. F. Shephard performed that office for Mr. Hector Munro.

Rev. Monsignor Buckley was the officiating clergyman. The brides and bridesmaids were the recipients of gifts of jewellery from the bridegrooms, which were worn during the ceremony. Mr. K. Hopkins, who presided at the organ, played the 'Wedding March'. After the marriage ceremony the wedding parties adjourned to the Masonic Hall, where a dainty repast was prepared for 150 of the relatives and friends of both parties sat down. Among the guests was the Rev. Monsignor Buckley. The toasts of the brides and bridegrooms and others of an appropriate nature were duly honoured, the festivity being kept up until late in the afternoon. The presents to each of the brides were very numerous and valuable.
